Bibliotherapy is nothing new. For a long time, the magical healing of a good book has been recognised in many cultures. It seems even more critical now as we juggle the fast-paced digital world with the need to take time out, slow down and immerse ourselves in literature.

A reading retreat at Indian Summer House grants you permission to binge read that book you've always wanted to read and be introduced to new books by fellow participants. You may arrive with your own reading list or be guided by one of our curators.

Our candle-lit poolside evenings allow for discussion on favourite books as well as designated time to share thoughts and responses to the books we have curated. Or you might prefer to tuck yourself away in a secluded garden space or your luxurious villa to read at your leisure.

The ISH reading retreat offers a holiday immersed in local culture, surrounded by like-minded readers who love books, reading, writing or thinking and talking about the stories that matter to them.

About the Curator – Dr Caroline van de Pol

Author of the memoir Back to Broady, Caroline is a journalist and editor and has published two non-fiction books. With a PhD in creative writing, Caroline is a university lecturer who teaches internationally.
